

I find it a great privilege to recommend WhaleSoft for their superior web software services.

I'm a New York-based independent digital producer and account director, affiliated with a number of award-winning digital marketing agencies and working on projects for organizations ranging from Fortune 500 B2B and B2C businesses to micro-budget startups within industries that include automotive, luxury, healthcare and nonprofit. The majority of my clients are international or nationwide companies, demanding superb quality of every deliverable.

WhaleSoft produces that kind of quality consistently and within the extremely tight deadlines imposed by my clients. I'm very pleased to work with WhaleSoft thanks to the company's technically proficient team and their amazing work ethic and commitment. My relationship with WhaleSoft started when the company helped me to retain an important American client who I would have lost otherwise – WhaleSoft delivered outstanding work within limited timeframe, and became my trusted partner from that moment on. Since that time, our professional relationship has expanded to include new clients, and I can confirm that the job always gets done both better and faster than expected.

Highest recommendations!
